Notes from Our Director

2016 is here and it is hard to believe that we have put January in the rear view mirror. I am still putting away Christmas decorations and finding needles from our tree hiding in the corners of our living room. I hope that each of you are keeping your New Year's resolutions. I always look forward to the New Year as it is a chance for a new start on old habits!

I would like to thank each member that took the time to complete the survey that Jim Wingo created. The results are in and Jim is working to summarize the data. The information that was collected will help us as we move forward with planning activities and tours. A special thank you to Jim and his team for creating the survey and compiling the results.

The club had two activities scheduled for January. We visited the Delta Airlines Museum on January 9th and viewed the collection of classic cars for sale at Streetside Classics on January 30th. We had a nice turnout for the tour of the Delta Museum. It was a nice way to kick off the year and a good inside venue for a cold drizzly January morning. Streetside Classics was on our schedule last year but was cancelled for some reason that I don't remember. In fact, Dick and I are still looking for that cancellation notice. We showed up and eagerly awaited the arrival of the rest of the club. After a long and agonizing wait, we figured that we would go ahead and check out the collection. As much as I enjoy Dick's company, it was nice to be joined by some other members this year. If you missed this outing, you might want to check it out on your own. They have quite an impressive collection of classic autos and everyone is begging for a spot in your garage.

As I mentioned last month, the board and I plan to have a calendar that is full of opportunities to get out and enjoy our hobby. Our next scheduled event will be our Valentine's Day Lunch on February 20th. Details for this event are in the newsletter. Dick and the rest of his team are busy putting the final touches on our activities calendar for the remainder of the year and there is a lot to look forward to. Please contact Dick if you have any ideas for future tours or activities.

One last thought on activities: Aside from our club's scheduled activities, I am sure that many of you know of events and outings that might be of interest to others in the club. Pass this information along to me so that I can get the word out. If your schedule is anything like mine, you might be busy on a particular day that the club has a planned outing, so having an abundance of opportunities to get out and enjoy our hobby is a great problem to have!

Tour to the Delta Flight Museum!

Saturday, January 9, 2016

By Cheryl Simpson

We had our first tour of the New Year on January 9th. The day started out dreary and drizzling rain. The group of 33 didn't let the weather dampen our spirits. Our group of 12 cars (including 2 brave ones who drove Model A's) met at Ramah First Baptist Church in Palmetto. We headed north on Hwy 29 to the museum, and by the time we arrived at the museum the rain had stopped.

The museum explores the history of Delta and the future of flight, with an array of interactive exhibits and rare aviation items. There was a theater showing a movie of Delta's history, exhibits and planes from the propeller age and the jet age including the Boeing 767 Spirit of Delta. We were even allowed a short "teaser" session in the flight simulator. It was a fun and interesting tour. I especially enjoyed seeing the Flight Attendant uniforms through the years. After the tour Larry and Jackie Peterson met us at the Barbecue Kitchen, where we had a delicious lunch.

Pam & Pat Tyler...all engines GO.

Jim Johnston & Kathie Meyers ready for takeoff.

Pilot, Barbara Biggs.

Featured Photo of the Month: (As with 2015, we will be featuring photos that glorify the Model A in all its varied styles, and enhanced by beautiful or intriguing settings. Keep track of your favorites throughout the year and we will once again take a tally and announce the winner for "Miss 2016.")

Streetside Classics Tour

January 30, 2016

By Gwyneth Shotwell

Mother Nature was certainly shining on us on Saturday, as we gathered in Palmetto for our tour to Streetside Classics in Lithia Springs. Eight Model A's joined one Suburban as we headed out for a scenic tour that took us through the Chattahoochee Hills and past Sweetwater Creek State Park before arriving at our first destination.

We were welcomed by Streetside staff, who had set up much appreciated coffee inside the vast, and a bit chilly, warehouse showrooms. The warm cup was the perfect accompaniment to perusing a mind-boggling array of cars featured on consignment. The offerings covered 1930's classics, muscle cars, sports cars, and even a Cadillac that might have been used as a "flower car," or perhaps just as a Caddy Ranchero.

Johnnie Hobbs, his son-in-law and three grandsons, met us at Streetside, and I know the boys especially enjoyed dreaming of all the possibilities for their first car. Johnnie is definitely planting a lot of seeds! Also, Radney Simpson met up with us, no doubt to keep an eye on his big brother, Bob.

Flower car? Or....?

After our leisurely visit, we headed out for the short drive to Douglasville where we partook of tasty Irish and American favorites while engaging in lively discussions of all sorts. It was fun to see the pub in an 1885 building that was originally the town pharmacy and general meeting place for visiting and enjoying a treat from the soda fountain.

Charlie Biggs

The day marked a milestone for Charlie Biggs, who took his lovely green coupe on its maiden voyage; congratulations to Charlie, and here's to many more tours to come. And our friends,

Our jolly group.

David and Dianne Gerken, with us for their second tour, were being regaled with all the good reasons to jump into the Model A hobby. We hope they take the bait! Plus, we all got to see our old friend Bud Shelton, who drove his woody all the way from Cumming to be with us. It was great to see him after all this time, and to enjoy his incomparable wit. All around, it was a special day.

CELLPHONE CAR PHOTOS GOOD ENOUGH TO PUBLISH

By: Paul Stenquist

(Reprinted by permission from Hagerty.com)

You polished your car, and it glows in late afternoon light. The sun, filtered by a tree, is behind the car, so it casts dappled shadows. You pull out your phone to capture the dramatic image.

Later, you have a look. What's this? The photo is dull, the shadows are black, and the background is burned out. The car is awkwardly positioned and tilted. You've fallen victim to both the limits of cellphones and poor photography decisions.

The cameras built into today's cellphones can produce publication-quality images, but technique is vital. Let's start by talking about light.

Backlight, with the sun behind the car, can be beautiful, as can dappled shade, but cameras don't record in the same way as the human eye sees, so their ability to capture highlights and shadows is limited. Pro photographers, using auxiliary lighting and reflectors, along with lenses that are protected against contrast-killing flare, can shoot backlit cars. Your cellphone can't. So think: sun over your shoulder and behind you. Full sun works, but hazy-bright light filtered by clouds is better. Since the side of a car can't be well lit with the sun overhead, shoot in morning or evening, when the sun is low in the sky.

Composition is critical. A car centered in frame looks detached. Photographers subscribe to "the rule of thirds" which suggests the composition be organized within a frame divided into thirds. With car photography, the vehicle is usually positioned in the bottom two-thirds of the frame.

Choose a location where the car can be positioned parallel to the horizon and the frame's top and bottom. In other words, keep it straight. Shoot front $\frac{3}{4}$ views, rear $\frac{3}{4}$ views and profiles from a few feet off the ground. Front $\frac{7}{8}$ views and head-on photos can be dynamic, but won't define your car.

To make your car the star, choose a site where the foreground is clean and elements like hills or trees are distant. This is critical with cellphones, which have considerable depth of field, meaning everything near camera is in focus. A wall 10 or more feet behind the car can serve as a background if it's simple and its tone complements the vehicle, but busy backgrounds are distracting.

You can shoot your car's interior with your cellphone, but do it in deep shade as dusk approaches, in morning before the sun is fully up, or on a cloudy day. The idea is to limit outside light and use your phone's flash to illuminate the interior. That will give you uniform lighting. Shoot through an open door and frame your shot to minimize window areas.

Finally, don't settle for your photos as shot: edit. Current phone software allows quite a bit of tweaking. With the IOS 9.1 photo-editing software on my iPhone 6 Plus, I can crop, rotate, straighten the horizon, adjust brightness and color saturation, or convert to black and white. Special effects are available as well. But I prefer to use Photoshop Fix, an Adobe app that includes many Photoshop tools, including the healing brush, burn and dodge, smooth and sharpen, paint brush, highlight and shadow controls, and more.
